ACCOUNTS FOR FUND

Raised $265,000 for Re-nomination of President Taft

LARGE CONTRIBUTIONS

Received From Taft Family—Cost Five Times More Than Expected.

Washington, Oct. 9.—The sum of $265,000 collected and spent in the campaign for President Taft's renomination through his Washington headquarters was partially accounted for by Representative William B. McKinley of Illinois, the President's campaign manager, in testimony before the senate investigating committee.

McKinley said the Taft family, comprising Charles P. Taft, Henry W. Taft and Horace Taft, brothers of the President, gave $150,000. The campaign, he declared, had cost five times what was expected.

"When we started out we expected to spend about $50,000," he told the committee.

The other chief contributor to the Taft fund, with the respective amounts as given by McKinley were:

John H. Hammond, $25,000; Andrew Carnegie, $25,000; E. T. Stotesbury, Philadelphia, $25,000; "Mr. Kelsner" and "Mr. Patton" of New York, described as "friends of the president," $12,000; Richard Kerekes, St. Louis, ambassador to Austria-Hungary, $5,000; Senator W. Murray Crane, $5,000; Secretary Knox, $2,500; Attorney General Wickersham, $1,000; former Senator Nathan B. Scott, $1,000; A. C. James, $1,000.

McKinley's records were read from small pencilled memorandums which he dug out of a trousers' pocket. He told the committee they were all he had to show for the handling of the big fund, except books kept in the headquarters that covered $134,900 spent directly for ordinary campaign purposes. Mr. McKinley declared his memory was not good enough to recall all the purposes for which money went out.

"I always thought I had a good memory until I got into that mixup," he explained; "but I saw a new man every five minutes in that whirl."

McKinley said he did not know the total amount that had been spent for President Taft in the entire campaign.

The amounts given by the respective members of the Taft family were not furnished by McKinley, nor did the committee ask for further particulars.

Charles P. Taft of Cincinnati will appear before the committee this afternoon to testify as to his contributions to the president's primary, and Charles D. Hilles, now national chairman and formerly the president's secretary, will appear Thursday. The committee will also hear Dan R. Hanna of Cleveland, who gave about $50,000 to the Roosevelt fund this year.

McKinley, though sharply questioned by members of the committee, could give no information as to the Taft funds raised in the different states. He declared he did not even know the names of men in charge of affairs in many states. The balance of the big fund for which he had no records had "dripped out" in the different state campaigns, he said.

The contributions to state campaigns by the Taft national headquarters were given as follows:

West Virginia, $6,000; Maryland, $10,000 to $12,000; Ohio, $20,000; Illinois, $15,000; Maine, $3,000; Texas, $5,000; Indiana, $10,000; Iowa, $5,000; Kansas, $5,000; Kentucky, $3,000.

Mr. McKinley and Ormsby McHarg, the latter contest manager for Colonel Roosevelt in the primary fight, held the witness stand throughout the afternoon. McHarg accounted for the expenditure of $25,000 or $30,000 by the Roosevelt committee in the Southern states, where contests were brought. He denied that any money had been spent to influence delegates, or that he knew of the use of any money in this way, either before or at the Chicago convention.

McKinley admitted freely that the Taft campaign committee had paid the expenses of delegates to the Chicago convention, a procedure that both he and Mr. McHarg said had been a "long standing custom." Asked as to how many delegates had thus been provided for, he said he thought expenses had been paid "wherever a delegate could not afford to pay his own way."

"Do you know anything of the use of money at the Chicago convention to change delegates?" asked Chairman Clapp.

"Nothing I would want to swear to," said Mr. McKinley smiling. "I have kept out of the Ananias Clubs so far and I guess I will remain out."

Chairman Clapp asked both McHarg and McKinley if they knew of an alleged underwriting of the Roosevelt campaign by men who were said to have pledged $2,000,000 or $2,000,000 to secure Colonel Roosevelt's nomination.

"It is an absurd yarn," declared McHarg. "I would have heard of such a thing if it were true and I consider such a story absolutely absurd."

McHarg told the committee that he had had nothing to do with politics since the June convention.

"Did you get a surfeit then?" asked Senator Oliver.

"Well, I don't know; I couldn't follow Colonel Roosevelt any further," he replied.

Former Senator Dewey testified he gave $10,000 to B. B. Odell, Jr., for the New York State campaign early in the political fight of 1904. Mr. Twombly told him the state committee was short and that Mr. Harrison was raising $200,000. "I think I gave $10,000 to that fund, but I cannot find a record of it," said Mr. Dewey. "Just before election Mr. Twombly told me the funds were still $40,000 short and that he was making up the difference. He needed $17,000 and he assessed me that amount. I gave him a check."

TRUST CREATED BY MARY BAKER EDDY
IS DECLARED VOID

Boston, Oct. 9.—A trust estimated at $2,000,000 created by the will of Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, founder of the Christian Scientist church, for the benefit of the denomination, was declared void by the Associate Supreme court today. The court holds, however, that a charitable trust has been created and that new trustees may be appointed to administer it.

HON. ROBERT LEE HENRY
OF TEXAS TO ADDRESS
BIG DEMOCRATIC RALLY

Local Democrats will have an opportunity of hearing one of the foremost members of the last congress discuss national issues on Saturday evening, Oct. 19. The national committee has notified leaders in this city that Hon. Robert Lee Henry, of Texas, has been assigned for a speech in Newark, and preparations are now well under way for his reception. It is intended that the meeting shall be made one of the most vital in the campaign, as Congressman Henry is a man who has made his power felt in the halls of congress on more than one occasion. He is an orator of considerable reputation, has had the advantage of a strict legal training and is able to present his views in a clear and convincing manner. It is now thought that the speech

The new officials of the congress have long been identified with conservation work.

BALKAN STATES
READY FOR WAR

London, Oct. 9.—If Serbia and Bulgaria have not already declared war on Turkey as reported from Paris it is believed everywhere that they are on the point of joining their mobilized armies to that of Montenegro, whose troops are said to be generally engaged with the Turks along the frontier. Should the two Balkan nations decide to appeal to arms about half a million soldiers of the Balkan states will be ready to oppose the Turkish army. The number of the Ottoman troops in European Turkey are understood to total several thousand.

London, Oct. 9.—News from Sofia, Bulgaria, says that the rapidity of the concentration of the army has exceeded all expectations and developments will now be very rapid. Everything in connection with the mobilization has worked with the utmost smoothness and there has been a remarkable absence of confusion at the war offices.

will be delivered in the High School Auditorium, although there is a possibility of a big outdoor mass meeting being arranged, with a speech from the court house steps. These arrangements, however, are merely tentative, and will be given thorough publicity during the coming ten days.

Hon. R. L. Henry has had the distinguished honor of representing the Eleventh district of Texas in congress for the past eight sessions, and was re-elected, without opposition, for the recent strenuous term. He is one of the men who is imbued with the spirit of the new south and the possibilities of Democracy, and in his breezy Waco style is certain to hold the attention of the large audience that will greet him in Newark.

WILSON
CHARGES

Replies to Roosevelt's Request to Retract Statement

BIG STEEL CORPORATION

Is Behind Third Party With Thought at Least If Not Financially.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 9.—Governor Woodrow Wilson, in his speech at Topeka, Kan., and here last night replied to Colonel Roosevelt's request at Albany, N. Y., Monday night that the Democratic nominee "prove or retract the declaration that the United States Steel corporation is behind the third party program for regulating trusts."

The Governor reiterated that "the steel corporation was behind the third party program in thought," and added that he knew nothing of any financial support. The Governor amplified his position and made a new attack, on the tariff policies of both his opponents.

"I understand from the newspapers," said Governor Wilson in his Topeka speech, "that Mr. Roosevelt was distressed by my suggestion the other day that the United States Steel Corporation was back of the plan for controlling the trusts."

"He interpreted my remark to mean that they were supporting him with money. I was not thinking of money. I do not know whether they are supporting him with their money or not; it does not make any difference. What I meant was they are supporting him with their thought, and their thought is not our thought. I meant, and say again, that the kind of control which he proposes is the kind of control the United States Steel Corporation wants."

"I am perfectly willing to admit that they think it is best for the country. My point is that this is a method conceived from the point of view of the very men who are to be controlled, and that that is just the wrong point of view from which to conceive it."

The Governor charged that the Roosevelt program was "not progressive at all in its fundamentals," and remarked that Elbert H. Gary, head of the steel corporation, and George W. Perkins, a director suggested the plan of government control of the trusts.

"And if Mr. Roosevelt," said the Governor, "is willing to have Mr. Perkins suggest how the corporations ought to be regulated why will he not be willing to take suggestions from the same quarter as to the details of the regulation? Mark you, I am not discussing individuals. I know George W. Perkins. I have no quarrel with anything except his judgment. He does not look at these things the way men do who do not wish to accustom their minds to monopoly look at them."

"We have an inside to our Government and an outside. Mr. Roosevelt wants to patent the inside. He says it is a good enough inside for him, provided he can use it. I do not mean use it for his own aggrandizement, but provided he can use it for the people of the United States. I am not aspersing Mr. Roosevelt's motives."

"I have nothing to do with them; they are postponed until the judgment day. But if he is allowed to patent the present processes of industry in this country and direct them with regard to the way in which they treat the United States, then he will see that his old classifications are realized, for he used to tell us there were good trusts and bad trusts."

"I dare say that he believes what he says, but in spite of his extraordinary..."

OFFICIAL FIGURES ON THE ATTENDANCE.

New York, Oct. 9.—The National Commission's figures for attendance and receipts at yesterday's game are as follows:
Total paid attendance, 35,731.
Total receipts, $75,127.
National Commission's share, $7513.
Players' share, $40,568.
Each club's share, $13,523.

Fenway Park, Boston, Oct. 9.—Boston turned out its baseball legions over 30,000 strong today to watch the American League champions do battle with the New York Giants, pennant winner of the National League in the second game of the world's series.

Victors over the Giants in the first contest at New York, the Boston team marched on Fenway Field to a triumphant welcome from a home crowd. Governor Eugene Foss of Massachusetts and Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston led the cheering.

The weather was fair and the edge of a sharp westerly breeze was somewhat dulled by the sun. Hazy clouds screened the sun at times and made the playing in the sun field less difficult.

The bleachers and unreserved grand stand crowds came early and long before the game began all the best seats were taken, with only a few bare spots near the back fences for the late comers. The New York fans, undismayed by the defeat of the Giants, shouted approval at the fast practice of the National Leaguers, and predicted that with Matthewson pitching the Red Sox would go down to defeat today.

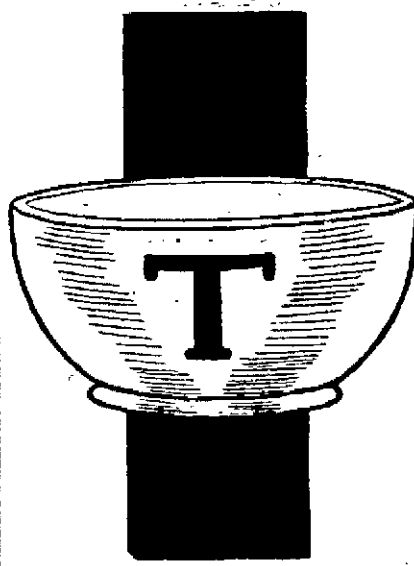

Boston, Oct. 9.—The weather for the second day of the Boston game in the world's championship is fair with a few clouds in the sky. The air is crisp and cool.

Boston, Oct. 9.—The Red Sox went into today's game with a distinct advantage over their New York opponents, gained in their victory in the first game of the series, played in New York yesterday. This advantage came not only from the lead of one game, which the Red Sox now have over the Giants, but also from the great moral support resulting from their hard fought victory in the initial test.

From their position under the shelter of the fence at Fenway Park, where they had been waiting all night, more than 400 baseball enthusiasts saw the sun rise this morning. Their object was to secure a single admission each to the bleachers. The night on the ticket line was one of interest. It was too cold to sleep and those in line could not walk to keep warm lest they lose their places. Bonfires were lighted and a few gathered about them and dozed. One man lost his false teeth while he slept and another stepped on his crutch and broke it.

Yesterday's game was one of caution and each team tried to feel the other out, few chances being taken. Today, each team having sized up the other's style and ability to play.

Third Week of Campaign Opens
—Special Music Features
Last Night's Meeting.

Tonight's Program:
7:00—Song service at the Tabernacle.
7:30—Sermon, "Judas Iscariot," by Dr. Lyon.

Tomorrow's Program:
9:00—Neighborhood prayer meetings.
12:00—Business Men's Luncheon, at First Presbyterian church.
2:00—Women's Special Meeting at the tabernacle, conducted by Mrs. Frances Allison.
7:00—Song Service at the tabernacle.
7:30—Sermon, by Dr. Lyon.

The workers from the Wehrle Stove Works will attend the services in a body Thursday evening, meeting at the corner of Sixth and Main Streets at 6:40 o'clock.

On Friday evening two thousand persons are expected to come from Cambridge, where Dr. Lyon held a rousing campaign last year. They will be accompanied by the famous "Cambridge Brass Band."

The third week of Dr. Lyon's evangelistic campaign in Newark opened last night with about twenty persons making a stand for Christ and the better life, bringing the total of conversions up to very near the three hundred mark. The responses came promptly last night when Dr. Lyon asked the "Great Question" throughout his sermon on that theme, and as he appealed to the audience in the words of the Master to the man at the pool of Bethesda, "Wilt thou be made whole?" men and women arose from all parts of the building and came forward to give the evangelist their pledges.

The audience last night was comparatively small, only about 2500 persons participating in the services. Those who did attend, however, were faithful in their worship, and fairly made the big tabernacle ring with their songs. Prof. Mitchell was in his happiest mood last night and his good humor seemed contagious. Through several medleys of the favorite campaign songs the people joined with the chorus in splendid manner, pleading for the "Showers of Blessing," and expressing their belief that "There is Power" in a manner that was not to be misunderstood. Other favorites of the evening were "Jesus Saviors, Pilot Me," "Stand Up for Jesus," and "There is Glory All the Way."

The special solo offering for the evening by Mrs. Grace Powell was one of the most pleasing that this gifted singer has yet contributed—the message of a contrite heart and a life seeking recognition—and as Mrs. Powell's voice carried the gospel that "Somebody Knows" to her hearers, there was a silence that showed that there were few who were not weighing well the strongest meaning of her words.

Ma'd Have a Fit.

Dr. Lyon's appeal for bigger collections was as strong last night as ever. "There is a lot of you remind me of little Johnny's pa. The teacher asked little Johnny what his mother would have if his pa gave her a dollar, two quarters, four nickels and seven pennies. Johnny's answer was very convincing. 'Why, ma'd have a fit,' he said."

"Now, I'll risk the ushers having a fit if you'll just get your hands down in your pockets and dig up," said the evangelist.

Interest in the meetings has spread to local factories, with the result that employees are beginning to ask that special nights be reserved for them. The first of these delegations will attend the tabernacle in a body from the Wehrle factory, on Thursday night. The employees will meet at the corner of Sixth and Main streets at 6:40 o'clock and will find a large section of the central portion of the tabernacle reserved.

dinary capacity I do not believe he can play providence to the human race quite as successfully as that, and I am strengthened in that doubt by the fact that they have fooled him on one of two notable occasions already.

"He will not admit that he was fooled, but it is evident that he was taken into camp, as any man might be taken into camp, who does not understand the whole business of the United States. I certainly do not, and if men experienced in these things come to me and declare upon their honor that so and so has to be done in order to avoid catastrophe, I have no knowledge sufficient to match their information.

"I am not blaming a man because he has been taken into camp, but I do blame him for proposing to perpetuate an arrangement which will make it dangerous lest he should be taken into camp again."

Referring to the tariff the governor said:

"The utterances of Mr. Roosevelt with regard to the tariff are practically the same as the utterances of Mr. Taft and if you look at the Saratoga program, which Mr. Roosevelt himself endorsed, you will find there an unqualified endorsement of the Payne-Aldrich tariff, just as unqualified as Mr. Taft made in his Winona speech. And in recent months, in recent weeks, Mr. Roosevelt has brushed the tariff aside and has said the tariff is not what ails us."

Governor Wilson had a strenuous day in Kansas, making speeches at Norton, Clyde, Phillipsburg, Topeka, and other points. For 20 miles of his journey he rode in a locomotive cab while the train was running a mile a minute.

At Phillipsburg, speaking of monopolies he said:

"Mr. Roosevelt wants to get on their backs and ride them, but he does not want to put them out of business. And I, for my part, would not trust any man in the United States, no matter how patriotic, however honest, or however able, to govern the trusts in such fashion that they will be kind to us."

Speaker Champ Clark and Governor Wilson appeared together in public for the first time since the latter won the Democratic nomination. A tremendous crowd gave both men an ovation.

Speaker Clark, in introducing Governor Wilson at Convention Hall, praised his character and called him "the twenty-seventh president of the United States." The governor in reply said he was glad to stand shoulder to shoulder with the great speaker of the House.

The governor speaks at Springfield, Ill., and St. Louis today.

Carnegie Polar Motion Pictures.
Cinematograph views taken by Capt. F. E. Klein Schmidt, explorer, hunter and trapper, under whose command the expedition financed by the famous Carnegie Museum, penetrated the wilderness of the ice-bound seas of the Far North and reached a point within 18 degrees of the North Pole. These motion pictures are part of the Carnegie Museum record of the expedition and are the first of the kind ever collected for scientific purposes. They present thrilling views of the pursuit of the big game of the Polar regions. At the Auditorium tonight and tomorrow matinee and night.

The Bohemian Girl.
A dazzling feature of the Aborn Opera Company's production of Balfe's masterpiece, "The Bohemian Girl," which will be offered at the Auditorium Saturday, Oct. 12, matinee and evening, is its colossal proportions. The American stage has never before seen a production of this opera carried upon such a tremendous scale. Of this production, it is said that it is an extraordinary combination of the most wonderful of old English operas, rich with melodies that are known wherever.

HELENA MORRILL.

In "The Bohemian Girl," at the Auditorium, Saturday Afternoon and Evening.

music is known, beautiful choruses and alluring dances, and a great modern stage spectacle. With commendable enterprise, the Messrs. Aborn have striven to improve on their last season's production, and have engaged a cast of unusual brilliancy. Most prominent in which is Helena Morrill, as Arline. Nella Brown as the Gypsy Queen. Roy Pilchers as Thaddeus, Wilnot C. Goodwin as Count Arnheim, Detmar H. Poppin as Devilshoof and Stephen Stott as Count Florestan.

A large and carefully drilled chorus, corps de ballet, special performers, etc., representing a company which in size and importance is second to none at present touring, in conjunction with a scenic drama, seldom seen outside of the great producing centres. Realism is lent to the series of great stage pictures that have been prepared by the introduction of a cavalcade of horsemen in a thrilling dash up the mountainside, as the finale of the first act, a band of genuine Gypsies are shown making and breaking camp in a truly realistic manner, and a wonderful troupe of whirlwind acrobats whose performance in the fair scene is little short of marvellous. Other special features, including "The Dance of the Hours" from Ponchielli's "La Gioconda," fit so naturally where they are introduced that they serve to enhance the beauty of Balfe's score with its "Then You'll Remember Me," "The Heart Bowed Down," "I Dreamt I Dwelt in Marble Halls," "Bliss Forever Past" and other perennial melodies. The advance sale of seats opens Thursday at 5 a. m.

NEW YORK GIANTS AND BOSTON RED SOX ARE CONFIDENT THEIR STAR BATTERS WILL GIVE A GOOD ACCOUNT OF THEMSELVES BEFORE THE WEEK HAS ENDED

The accompanying photograph shows some of the mightiest hitters on the two big league teams that are now grappling for the world's baseball championship at New York and Boston.

Here are the batting averages of the Boston men shown in the photograph: Speaker, .382; Gardner, .317; Krug, .308; Stahl, .301; Wagner, .271; Yerkes, .250; Hooper, .246.

The Giants who are shown in the photograph have the following records: Meyers, .339; Doyle, .322; Merkle, .301; Murray, .267; Devore, .264; Herzog, .262; Snodgrass, .260.

edy Company, supporting Lulu Lynn Norris, in a repertoire of musical comedy successes, with new and beautiful scenery and electrical effects, will begin an engagement of three nights and Wednesday matinee, commencing Monday, Oct. 14. The opening play is entitled "A College Girl" and is said to be a big bunch of screams which emit during the progress of the two acts. Pretty musical numbers will be introduced by the principal members of the company, assisted by a chorus of sprightly girls in handsome costumes. A number of high class specialties will be seen during the action of the piece, among which the Musical Nocturnes are the headline feature. They will present their original musical act, "The 12x2 Band," which has been a big feature on the Keith vaudeville circuit. The seat sale opens Saturday at 9 a. m., and popular prices of 15, 25, 35 and 50 cents will prevail.

Orpheum Theatre.

Turning away large crowds at the Orpheum theatre is the result of the big feature Texico, the most wonderful dancer the American public has ever had the opportunity to see. Texico is pronounced by press and public to be one of the greatest dancers of the kind on the stage today. In the dance of "Najah" Texico uses a real live serpent, which makes the scene more realistic.

Fitch Cooper, Maz Rowland, Myie & Orth and the Murvynscope complete the program, making one of the strongest bills the Orpheum has offered for many a day. The big features for Thursday Friday and Saturday will include the following: The Musical Lamants Myra Warren Co., Kathryn Hawman Merena-comedy acrobats, Manager Boyce requests that if you wish seats for the first show you must order early. Seats are on sale every morning at 8 o'clock. Call up by phone, some one is always there.

"LITTLE WOMEN" AT COLONIAL IN CLEVELAND

Newark visitors in Cleveland next week and those scores of Newarkites residing in Cleveland will have a chance to attend "Little Women" at the Colonial theatre which opens an engagement Monday, October 14, playing throughout the week. The stage version of "Little Women," Louisa M. Alcott's immortal story, which has been made by Marian de Forest, magazine writer and dramatic critic of the Buffalo Express, and produced by Wm. A. Brady, will attract thousands to Cleveland's popular theatre.

The play, in its reality "Little Women," the book, made into a character comedy in four acts and two scenes, which tell the familiar story of the March girls, Meg, Jo, Beth and Amy, and all those concerned in the development of that story: Laurie, handsome, debonaire; the professor; Mr. and Mrs. March; old Hannah, who grumbles so much that no one else has a chance; old Mr. Lawrence, and Aunt March, the crochety, family scold. Furthermore the story of "Little Women" is really the story of Louisa M. Alcott, and her three sisters, Miss Alcott is the original Jo; Meg is Anna Alcott, her older sister; Beth is Elizabeth Alcott; whose death in girlhood cast a heavy shadow over Louisa. Amy March is May Alcott, and the story of her artistic hopes and dreams is true to life, just as is the account of Jo's endeavors to win fame and fortune through the efforts of her pen. a dream that she lived to see come true in most abundant measure.

Ever since the announcement that William A. Brady was to produce Miss de Forest's play, his office has been overwhelmed with inquiries and the managers all over the country have been clamoring for bookings, but Mr. Brady decided to give Cleveland one of the earliest weeks. It took eight years of persistent endeavor to secure the consent of Miss Alcott's heirs to having the story made into a play. Permission was finally secured by Miss Jessie Bonstelle and the work of dramatization was given to Miss de Forest. Many of the identical costumes and properties used by the March girls in their famous stage frolics have been preserved by the Alcott family and will be used in the stage production, including Jo's russet boots, which, according to "Little Women," she got from "a lady who had a friend who new an actor." The fourth and last act is the Plumfield apple orchard at harvest time, a veritable harvest home, in which are finished the girlish romances that have made thousands of readers laugh and weep. There will be matinees Thursday and Saturday, the first at bargain prices.

STORY OF "THE BOHEMIAN GIRL"

- AND ITS COMPOSER -

MICHAEL WILLIAM BALFE

BY ISADORE DAMROSCH

THE WONDERFUL POPULARITY OF THIS BEAUTIFUL WORK DURING ITS SIXTY YEARS OF EXISTENCE HAS PROMPTED ITS REVIVAL ON AN ELABORATE AND SPECTACULAR SCALE THIS SEASON BY THE ABOEN ENGLISH GRAND OPERA COMPANY

Like a great many good things supposed to be of English origin, "The Bohemian Girl" is the work of an Irishman, and Michael William Balfe, the composer of this opera, is one of the most romantic figures in musical history. Born at Dublin, May 15, 1808, the son of a dancing master, he was soon recognized as a musical prodigy, began to learn the violin about the age of eight, and his children began to talk, was violinist for his father's dancing class at six, and at the age of seven composed and scored a polka. He was placed under the instruction of O'Rourke of Dublin, and this noted Irish musician brought out the nine-year-old Balfe as a violin virtuoso. In that year he composed his first song, "Young Fanny," or "The Lover's Mistake." The elder Balfe died and left the boy musician on his own resources at fifteen, and he went to London, where he studied vocalism and composition. He also played in the orchestra at Drury Lane, and at times conducted. His first appearance as an opera singer was in "Der Freischutz," and in 1825 he went to Italy with Count Mazzara, studying under Paer at Rome and under Federici and Filippo Galli at Milan. In his twentieth year he wrote his first dramatic composition—a ballet entitled "La Perouse." He then went to Paris and took up his vocal studies under Bordogni, and made his first appearance there in opera when nineteen years old as Figaro in "The Barber of Seville," under the composer, Rossini. He was successful from that time on, both as a baritone and as a composer. At Bergamo he met and fell in love with the beautiful Hungarian singer, Mile. Lina Rosa, whom he married shortly after.

Balfe's first opera in English, "The Siege of Rochelle," was produced at Drury Lane in 1835, and was followed by "The Maid of Artois" in 1836. These were both well received, and were followed in close succession by about twenty other operas brought out at various intervals up to his death, October 20, 1870, and his posthumous opera, "The Talisman," was first performed in London in 1874. Nearly all of his compositions were successful, but none of them has endured as has his masterpiece, "The Bohemian Girl."

During his career as a composer, Balfe continued to appear as a baritone in other operas, and both he and his wife also sang in some of his own works. He was highly honored all over Europe and received many decorations from foreign royalty. In 1864 he retired to his place in the country, called Rowney Abbey, in Hertfordshire, as a gentleman farmer.

The scenes of "The Bohemian Girl" are laid in Presburg, on the Danube, and its vicinity. The first act shows the chateau and grounds of Count Arnheim, where the peasantry and retainers of this nobleman are preparing for the hunt, when Thaddeus, a Polish exile and fugitive from the Austrian troops, enters and asks for concealment. Following the opening chorus, "Up With the Banner," the Count (baritone) sings his solo, "A Soldier's Life." His little daughter, Arline, is seen going for a stroll up the mountain path with Florian, the faithful cohen of the Count, and Buda, the chieftain's nurse. Thaddeus (tenor), on his entrance, sings the cavatina, "Tis Sad to Leave Our Fatherland." Devilshoof (basso-buffo) appears with his gypsy band. Thaddeus quickly disguises himself and mingles with the gypsies as the soldiers come and search for him, during the chorus. In the Gypsies' Life You Read," Florian returns, frightened and excited, to report that Arline has been attacked by a wild animal. Thaddeus rushes quickly to her rescue and brings her back to the chateau in safety with only a wound on her arm. The Count, in gratitude, invites him to the feast, but his refusal to drink to the Emperor results in his being attacked and driven away by the Count's retainers, while Devilshoof, out of revenge, seizes Arline and carries her off. The peasants then sing the beautiful prayer, "Thou Who in Might Supreme," while the soldiery hurry in pursuit of the outlaw.

Twelve years are supposed to have elapsed when the curtain rises on the second act, the first scene of which is the gypsy encampment around the tent of the gypsy queen. The opening chorus, "Silence," is most effective and thoroughly in the atmosphere of the early dawn. Arline sleeps within, while Thaddeus watches. Devilshoof enters and prepares to rob Florian, who is at a nearby inn, flushed with wine. They secure his valuables, but the Queen (contralto) makes them return all except a medallion, which Devilshoof hides. They all depart, and Arline (soprano) remains, comes from the tent and sings Thaddeus in the beautiful song, "I Dreamt I Dwelt in Marble Halls," of a dream she has had, which is reminiscent of her early childhood before she was stolen from her titled father. They declare their love for each other, and the Queen, who also loves Thaddeus, is persuaded by Devilshoof to join the hands of the two lovers in marriage, after which the Queen's ballad, "Bliss Forever Past," closes the scene.

In the second scene, showing the road to Presburg, Arline sings "Come With Me, the Gypsy Bride," and the band are seen on their way to the fair.

The third scene shows the Public Plaza of Presburg, where the gypsies have assembled. Arline, the Queen, Thaddeus and Devilshoof sing the spirited quartette, "From the Valleys and Hills." Florian appears and attempts to make love to Arline. The Queen recognizes him and gives Arline the stolen medallion so that she may be accused of robbing him. The Queen's plan for revenge is successful, apparently, for Arline is arrested, but it is this circumstance which leads her to her long-lost father.

The fourth scene is laid in the apartment of Count Arnheim in the Hall of Justice, where the Count sings his famous solo, "The Heart Bowed Down." Arline is brought in for trial before him and pleads her innocence. Not being believed, she is about to end her life with a dagger, the Count prevents her and in seizing her arm observes the scar by which he recognizes her as his daughter, and Thaddeus confirms her identity.

Judges of the Supreme court of Ohio Tuesday refused to permit attorneys for the Third Term party who took exceptions to the ruling of Secretary of State Graves that the law does not permit the candidates for one party to appear on the ticket of another party promulgating entirely different principles, to file a petition in error in the Supreme court.

The highest court of the state by refusing to take jurisdiction of the controversy has sustained Secretary Graves on every point. The secretary of state is an administrative officer and as such is compelled to obey the law. The ruling was not the promulgation of Mr. Graves' own personal opinion, but a statement of the meaning of the law as it was put into the statute books by the Ohio general assembly.

It is wonderful how the tide has turned in favor of Taft. His leaders are now claiming with absolute confidence that he can carry Vermont to a certainty with a good prospect for carrying New Hampshire. As the Mormon church has insured Utah's four votes for Taft he has a prospect of an even dozen in the electoral college.

THE "PROSPERITY" ARGUMENT

The drowning leaders of the G. O. P. are grabbing at the last straw to save Taft from overwhelming defeat. This last straw is the "prosperity" argument. The cry is: "The country is prosperous, why incur the risk of a change?"

Taft himself, in his last interview, injects the argument after the manner of a stump speech.

And yet this tidal wave of prosperity has come and is increasing in volume right along with the other tidal wave of victory for Democracy under the triumphant leadership of Woodrow Wilson.

But this "Prosperity" argument is just the reverse of that made four years ago to promote Taft's election.

Four years ago Taft was running for president on the plea that business was depressed.

A Republican administration and the Dingley high tariff had not saved the country from the effects of the Roosevelt panic of the year before, when every bank in the country had to refuse cash payments on checks for many weeks, and many thousands of men were out of employment.

Then it was that candidate Taft and his army of spellbinders made frantic appeals to the voters claiming that the country was in no condition to run the risk of a change.

The 1908 argument to elect Taft was that it would be suicidal for the country to change party control with business just emerging from the panic of 1907.

It was a Republican panic and only the Republican party could save the country from its deplorable results.

If the country were determined to try the experiment of a Democratic administration it should wait until it was strong and in fine condition. The country might then stand it.

But the promises made to elect Taft have been so brazenly violated that this wide-spread Republican insurgency in the party's former strongholds of the great West and Middle West has made Taft's re-election impossible.

The actual political conditions are that never was a President of the United States, running for re-election, so discredited as is Mr. Taft. The impossibility of his success—the certainty of his defeat—are today prevalent conclusions in the public mind.

With equal certainty has the popular tidal wave that is sweeping the country assured the overwhelming election of Woodrow Wilson beyond the shadow of a doubt.

The first dodge of the Taft leaders—the stand-patter millionaire beneficiaries of exorbitant protection robbery—was to raise the cry of the "Free Trade" bugaboo. But this failed to frighten people after the manner it had done in campaigns previous.

This being a campaign of Free Thought, the effort to work the old "Free Trade" scare crowd utterly failed. Woodrow Wilson's wise declarations for revising the tariff downward (as the country is demanding) gradually have met the views of the country's leading business men with such favor and approval as to practically clinch his election on November 5.

And this is the very thing that has brought on this prosperity tidal wave. That the country will have a lasting, beneficial effect of it, is the confidence that rests in the minds of a large majority of the thoughtful, intelligent American people today.

Simple Diet the Best.

The fewer foods we eat together at a single meal the better, from the health standpoint; of that there can be no reasonable doubt. The poor man who can afford but a few simple dishes is far better off, in reality, than the rich man with his extensive "course dinners"—as many millionaires have found out when they are reducing to living on milk for a while.

Possibly Better Off.

Some one has compiled statistics showing that one thousand persons in the United States are at present employed in walking for wages. Society would be just as well off if they were working for wages—Judge.

Work of the Unhonored.

Let George Eliot speak: "The growing good of the world is partly dependent on unhistoric acts, and that things are not so ill with you and me as they might have been is half owing to the number who lived faithfully a hidden life and rest in un-labeled tombs."

Judgment Sometimes at Fault.

Believe me, every man has his sorrows which the world knows; and oftentimes we call a man cold when he is only sad—Longfellow.

THE SOUTH WILL REMAIN SOLID

That is the Declaration of Every Southern Democrat.

AS TO SECTIONAL FEELING.

One Explanation of the Attitude of Northern Republicans is Found in the Fact That the South is So Continually Democratic—Hearst's Part in Campaign Investigation.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, Oct. 9.—[Special.]—"The solid south will not be broken," is the oft repeated statement from every southern Democrat who comes to Washington. He may say that Taft is popular here and Roosevelt there, and that "if" this or that happened there might be a political break in the complexion of the southern states, but the positive conclusion is that there will be no break in the south this year, and every state of that group will cast its electoral votes for the Democracy.

The Democrats say that the "mysterious stranger," Missouri, which appeared in the Republican column in 1904 and again in 1908, will return to the Democratic fold and possibly will be accompanied by West Virginia and surely by Maryland.

A Southerner's Complaint.

Riding through a portion of Virginia near Washington recently, I was impressed with the words of a resident of that section who complained bitterly about the way northern men in congress treated the south, basing his statement upon the fact that everything had been done for the lands around Washington north of the Potomac, while the country south of the river had been ignored and neglected. He went further and said that expositions in southern cities had been neglected by the general government and that New Orleans had been denied the Panama exposition, simply because northern men in congress were prejudiced against the south.

"It is nearly fifty years after the war, and it is time that kind of prejudice should die," was his conclusion.

An Explanation.

Perhaps many southern men share his ideas and believe that the south is unfairly treated. This is denied by southern men in congress when they speak of river and harbor, public buildings and other appropriations made by congress. However, no doubt northern Republicans did vote against New Orleans and in favor of San Francisco because one was a Democratic and the other a Republican city.

But it must be understood that many northern partisan Republicans feel that the solid south makes its own sectional barrier by being continually and solidly Democratic. "Whenever we go into a campaign," said a northern Republican, "we start with a handicap of 125 congressional seats which are absolutely safe because they are in southern states. We do not even make a campaign in those districts. In twelve states with 147 electoral votes there is never the shadow of a doubt that they will go Democratic. It is a foregone conclusion before the nominations are made. That is what I call sectional and is responsible for some of the sectional feeling which still exists in our part of the country."

Small in Comparison.

But sectional feeling cuts a mighty small figure compared with that which exists between the regular Republicans and their erstwhile allies, now Progressives. The way those factions of the old Republican party feel toward each other must be something like that which existed between the loyalists and patriots of Revolutionary days.

Hal Flood's Chance.

When they were making up the list of committees of the house for the present congress Hal Flood of Virginia had to sacrifice the chairmanship of foreign affairs in order to let Jim Hay have military affairs. Sulzer was transferred from military affairs to foreign affairs.

Mr. Sulzer will now leave a vacancy, and Mr. Flood will get the committee he gave up in the interest of Democratic harmony.

Oliver's Interest.

There is no more close observer of the campaign investigation than Senator Oliver. The junior Pennsylvania senator is supposed to be looking out for the interests of Senator Penrose, who was responsible to a large extent for starting the row.

But Hearst Did It.

These must be joyful days for William R. Hearst. A man who delights to see his opponents "all stirred up" could not have a better time when he views the result of his efforts. His publication of the Standard Oil correspondence caused much of the political turmoil which we see around us and the disclosures of campaign contributions and expenditures. And Mr. Hearst may be asked to say something on the subject, for he, too, was a candidate in the campaign of 1904 before the Democratic national convention.

There also are curious and vivid tales who would like to know how many more letters Hearst has in his possession.

Does a man deny himself when he travels under an alias?

A TONIC LAXATIVE

Per-na an Up-to-Date Family Medicine That Should Be In Every Home

S. B. HARTMAN, M. D.

Nearly everybody is obliged more or less to take a laxative. There are of course a few exceptions. A great many people also need occasionally to take a tonic. Probably few households exist that do not make use of tonics and laxatives.

The remedy Per-na is a laxative tonic. It not only operates as a gentle laxative, but also as a tonic.

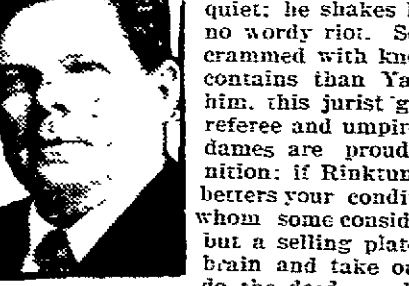

The benefit derived from such a remedy is a great deal more in the prevention of disease than in the cure. After a person has really become sick, either with an acute or chronic ailment, the rule should be to employ a physician, or some one who can give the case his personal attention. But long before this happens the person will complain of this or that symptom, which is not severe enough to interfere with his regular activities. If at this place before the disease has really gained a foothold in the system, a person was to take a dose or two of the Per-na, it would be a great tonic and good tonic laxative the great majority of cases of sickness would be prevented.

Per-na, Man-a-lin and La-cu-pia manufactured by the Per-na Company, Columbus, Ohio. Sold at all drug stores.

SPECIAL NOTICE—Many persons inquire for the Old-time Per-na. They want the Per-na that their Fathers and Mothers used to take. The old Per-na is now called Katarina. If your dealer does not keep for sale, write the Katarina Company, Katarina, Ohio, good tonic laxative the great majority of cases of sickness would be prevented.

THE SILENT MAN.

Judge Rinkum makes no foolish breaks, no blunders bald or shocking; he goes his way day after day, and no one hears him talking. He answers "no" in accents low when someone asks a question, or murmurs "yes," as in distress from verbal indigestion. He won't debate, he won't orate, or break his solemn quiet; he shakes his head—all has been said—he wants no wordy riot. So in the town he has become as being crammed with knowledge; his bunch of brains more lore contains than Yale or Harvard college. We're proud of him, this jurist grim, this man who never chatters; the referee and umpire he in all our village matters. The dames are proud when he has bowed in stately recognition; if Rinkum stands and shakes your hands, he betters your condition. Yet this old boy, our pride and joy, whom some consider greater than Cleo or G. Pincol, is but a selling plaster. If he should drain his massive brain and take out all that's in it, he wouldn't need, to do the deed, much more than half a minute. Oh, just look wise and you will rise and have good things before you; but talk too much and you're in Dutch, and no one will adore you.

ANNIVERSARY OF SIR WILFRID LAURIER'S DEBUT AS MINISTER

It was 35 years ago Tuesday, Oct. 8, 1877, that Sir Wilfrid Laurier—then, however, without the title—entered the government of the Dominion of Canada as Minister of Inland Revenue. Until last year, when the Liberal majority was wiped out and obliterated and snowed under and murdered and assassinated and slaughtered and knifed and assaulted and battered, and the bleeding remains cremated and buried and entombed under a monument bearing the epitaph, "Ad Calendas Graecas, Rosurgam" which means that the corpse shall rise again at the Greek Calends, the Greeks having no Calends, which is pretty tough on the Greeks; the epitaph, of course, being supplied by the Conservatives, while the Liberals say that, while their party may now be requiescing in peace, at the very next opportunity it will omnia vincit; until that event of last year, I repeat, Sir Wilfrid remained the foremost statesman of Canada.

Wilfrid Laurier was born in St. Lin, Quebec, in 1841, and was educated for the profession of the law. At the age of thirty he embarked on the ship state, of which he was destined to become the commander. His first political job was as a member of the Provincial Assembly of his native Province, to which he was elected as a Liberal. In a little while his eloquence had won for him the title of "Silver-tongued Laurier," and his ability gave him a foremost place in the councils of the Liberal party of the Dominion. In 1874 he was sent to the Dominion Parliament, where—in quote the language of his biographers—"his high personal character, his undoubted loyalty and attachment to the connection of the colony with Great Britain together with his great oratorical powers, speedily gave him high rank among the statesmen of Canada."

On October 9, 1877, as previously stated, Mr. Laurier became Minister of Inland Revenue. With the passing of the years his capacity for leadership was again and again demonstrated, and when Mr. Blake retired in 1891, Mr. Laurier was chosen leader of the Liberals. The wisdom of the choice was soon demonstrated, for in the general election of 1896 he led the Liberal hosts to triumphant victory at the polls, and became Premier of the Dominion.

From the beginning of his public career the ex-Premier advocated free trade so far as the revenue requirements of the country would permit. He played a prominent part in the heated discussion of the Manitoba schools question, which at one time convulsed the Dominion, and although a Catholic he opposed the position taken in the matter by the Roman Catholic hierarchy.

One of the triumphs of his administration, it is generally considered, was the tariff legislation of 1897 which gave the mother country the benefit of preferential trade with Canada. The Premier was given a warm welcome when he visited London to attend the Queen Victoria Jubilee festivities. Sir Wilfrid tackled the tariff question once too often when he took the pro side of the question of reciprocity with the United States. The Conservative landslide that followed is still a matter of recent history.

New Talking-Machine Records.

Talking machine records made by photography will be the next development in the reproduction of sound. Invented by a Russian named Lifschitz, a new machine has been made which, it is claimed, reproduces music and sounds of any kind with perfect clearness, without any rasping or scraping defects. The records are made entirely by photography.

Inevitable Result.

"I am surprised to hear that Dubleigh has broken down," said Stubbs. "He used to have a splendid constitution." "Yes," said Wigglethorpe, "but he began amending it."—Harper's Weekly.

SOCIETY

The Schakamaxon Club was entertained by Miss Gordon in Buckingham street Monday evening, October seventh. The evening was spent in sewing and games, after which dainty refreshments were served.

Those present were: Misses Blanch Halderman, Mabel Winners, Louise Myers, and May Farmer. The guests were Misses Margaret Dwyer and Dorothy Halderman.

Mrs. M. Schonberg entertained at her home in Hudson avenue on Wednesday afternoon with a thimble party. The guests were given linen to hem and following the sewing a luncheon was served. The dining room was arranged in red and white, the centerpiece being formed of red dahlias which were embedded in fern leaves. The favors were tiny bags of rice tied with red ribbon and ribbons extended to the centerpiece. When they were withdrawn hearts were found on the end bearing the names of Miss Molly Schonberg and Mr. Louis Regan with the date November 5, 1912.

The wedding of Miss Schonberg and Mr. Regan will be a social event of November. Mr. Regan is a dry goods merchant in Nelsonville, O., and is the son of Mrs. Rose Regan of Zanesville. Miss Schonberg is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Schonberg of Hudson avenue.

There were twenty guests at the announcement luncheon.

Friends in the city have received announcement cards reading as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Wilkins announce the marriage of their daughter

Ruth Charlotte

to

Mr. Sylvan Ezra Jackson on Wednesday, October the second. Nineteen hundred and twelve Lakewood, Ohio.

At Home

After November first 1431 West 114th street Cleveland, O.

Mr. Jackson formerly resided in Newark with his parents in Hudson avenue.

KENT-SEWARD.

At 8:30 o'clock on Wednesday morning was solemnized the wedding of Miss Ruby I. Seward and Mr. Maurice Coulter Kent. The bride was accompanied by Miss Minnie Brown while the groom was unattended. The beautiful ring service was read in the parsonage of the First

M. E. Church by Rev. L. C. Sparks, pastor of the church.

Following the ceremony Mr. Kent and his bride left at once for Columbus from which city they will take a trip to Dayton, Cleveland and Detroit. The bride is the daughter of Mr. W. C. Seward and for several years has been employed by the J. J. Carroll company. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Kent of German street and is a florist. Their at home cards read for November 1 in the Union apartments.

Mrs. Frank Daley delightfully entertained at her home in Lawrence street the members of the Tuesday Evening Euchre club on the club night. The game concluded with the prizes being awarded to Mrs. Otha Meyers and Mrs. Jack Huffman.

The Mystic Club was pleasantly entertained Friday afternoon by Mrs. Carl Heim at her home in Gay street. After a few hours devoted to needlework and conversation a delicious luncheon was served.

Those present were Mrs. Claude Messenger, Mrs. Bessie Peppers, Mrs. Harvey Cole, Mrs. Eugene Smith, Mrs. D. B. Young, Mrs. E. W. Ryan, Mrs. Helen Huffman, Mrs. Fred Schneider and the hostess. One new member, Mrs. Leah Cramer was taken in.

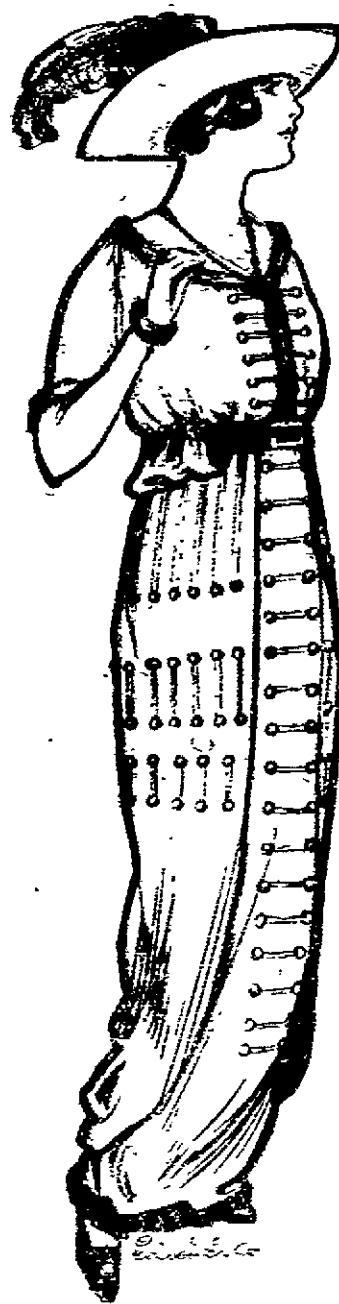

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Helen Huffman in Eleventh street.

The marriage of Miss Helen McCarty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Edward McCarty, 1545 Menlo Place, to Mr. Robert Clay Van Voorhis of Newark, will take place in the Central Presbyterian church Tuesday evening. Rev. Joseph Taylor Britton will officiate. Miss McCarty's maid of honor will be Miss Blanche Bushnell of Evanston, Ill., and the bridegroom will be attended by Mr. John Hissop of Columbus. The bridesmaids will be Miss Charlotte Hoyt and Miss Marguerite Schick of Newark. Mrs. J. Fulton Van Voorhis of Granville and Mrs. Victor Giffine of Cleveland will act as matrons of honor. The ushers are to be Mr. C. Graham Beckel of Dayton, Mr. J. Fulton Van Voorhis of Granville, Mr. Robert Willis of Washington C. H., and Mr. Verne Priest of Newark.

One of the most enjoyable affairs of the past week took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Ball in Clinton street on Monday evening when they honored Rev. and Mrs. Jos. A. Bennett and family with a pretty appointed six o'clock dinner. Pink and white cosmas formed a charming centerpiece for the festal board, where an elaborate course dinner was served, covers being laid for ten. The remainder of the evening was spent in listening to a number of selections on the Victrola. At a late hour all departed, wishing Rev. and Mrs. Bennett much success and happiness in their future home in West Virginia, for which place they will leave in a few weeks.

Mrs. J. N. Teomans will entertain the E. O. T. club Thursday afternoon at her home, 19 Fulton avenue.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

The Rat Went Out of the Back Door Gyp Watched the Rat Hole All Day.

THERE was a smile on daddy's face to begin with. "Now," said he, "I think I will tell you about a smart little puppy dog."

Jack and Evelyn also smiled, for puppy dogs were particularly dear to them.

"Gyp was a fat black puppy dog. He lived in a house behind which stood a big white stable," daddy went on.

"Fan and Gay, the two brown carriage horses, lived in the stable. Up in the loft the feed was kept, and in the harness room hung the nice leather fittings the horses wore when they went out."

"Tabby, the house cat, was too old and rheumatic to spend the night in the stable. So Gyp, whose mother, a cute little terrier, was a splendid ratner, was kept in the stable so that he might see his mother catching rats and learn the business early."

"Gyp did his best to learn. There wasn't a rat hole in the stable that he didn't sniff hopefully every morning when he got up and to which he did not pay a good night visit before he crawled into his sleeping box in the corner."

"But, as all good rat catchers should have told him, there is something more in catching a rat than watching a hole."

"One morning as he played about the stable he noticed a big gray rat poke its head out of one of the holes. The rat was looking for something to eat, but when it saw Gyp it jerked its head back into the hole. Barking delightedly, Gyp made for the rat hole and sniffed and whined, coaxing the rat to come out again."

"I'm going to sit down here and wait till I catch it," said Gyp. He thought that would not be very long. All morning he watched the rat hole.

"Good dog," said the coachman when he took the horses out in the morning.

"Good dog," he said again when he came back at noon. Gyp began to feel hungry, but still he would not stir.

"As it began to grow dark his mother came in to see where he had been all day. 'Why didn't you come to the house for your lunch?' she asked."

"I'm watching for a rat," he replied. "I've been watching ever since it looked out of the hole this morning."

"You silly child," replied his mother. "Come along, now, and have your supper. Don't you know rats have more than one way to get in and out of their holes? I dare say that was the very rat I caught down in the stable cellar this morning."

"And poor Gyp moaned with disappointment."

Fifty Years Ago Today.
Oct. 9.
General J. E. B. Stuart ("Jeb") at the head of 1,500 Confederate cavalry was galloping across Maryland toward the Pennsylvania border. This invasion alarmed central and western Pennsylvania, and local troops were summoned to repel the raiders who had forded the Potomac at night and cut their way through the Federal outposts. By Stuart's order the property of the citizens of Maryland was spared from confiscation. Stuart's column included artillery.

Wednesday morning he was still in a comatose state, and grave fears were entertained for his recovery. His many friends sincerely trust that he may soon regain his accustomed good health.

The German Salem Aid Society meets at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Shide Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Friends of the family are cordially invited. The Granville car leaves Newark 10 minutes before the hour.
Wedding Date Denied.
The announcement of the wedding of Mrs. Thomas Smart to Mr. W. H. Linard on Oct. 10, in Bellaire, in Saturday's Advocate, is denied by Mrs. Smart. Mrs. Smart was out of the city at the time, and this fact was taken advantage of by two young ladies, who brought the item to the Advocate office.
Successful Operation.
At the Sanitarium this morning Attorney Frank A. Bolton submitted to an operation at the hands of Drs. J. T. Harbottle, H. J. Davis and H. E. Hunt. After the patient had recovered from the influence of the anaesthetic, the attending physicians pronounced the operation entirely successful and predicted a speedy recovery for Mr. Bolton.

FOR GRINDING ROOTS.

Homemade Device Recommended in Place of Spade or Chopper.
An easier and speedier method of reducing beets, carrots, turnips and other roots to pulp than chopping up with a spade or the four bladed chopper sometimes used for this purpose is provided by the cheap homemade grinder illustrated.
Any poultryman or stock raiser can make it at trifling expense of time and work and use it with belt wheel for steam or gas engine power, or, if desired or compulsory, a crank and fly-wheel may be attached and the grinder operated by hand power.
Manner of making proper, attaching legs, braces, etc., is well explained in large illustration; small illustration shows sectionally the interior or main working parts. A triangular shaped strip of wood (A) extends across rear side of box, firmly nailed in place behind the spiked cylinder (B), which revolves and does the grinding, and another wooden strip (C), fitted with teeth like the cylinder, extends across front side and slides in grooves or small strips at ends of hopper as an adjustable concave.
Teeth may be twelve penny spikes, heads cut off and the remainder driven into cylinder, leaving about a half inch projecting, with ends filed sharp. The distance cylinder teeth are placed apart and position of movable concave, the teeth of which should intersect those of the cylinder, will determine the degree of fineness to which roots may be reduced.
The grinder may be made of any desired capacity. If all its working parts are well made with screws and bolts, it will be very durable and may be run at high speed—Farm and Fireside.

SPREAD MANURE NOW.
Plow it Under Good and Deep and Watch Results Next Year.
Every up to date farmer or land-owner knows that the keeping of farm land up to its highest possible state of fertility involves the intelligent use of large quantities of barnyard manure, says Professor Jones of the Idaho station. The question of when and how to apply it most advantageously is, however, sometimes a puzzling one. Particularly is this true in the case of the man who grows small grain only, it being well known, of course, that manure may prove a detriment rather than a benefit when its application is followed at once by a wheat or oat crop.
But to the man who makes a practice of growing a cultivated crop each year the disposal of the annual accumulation of barnyard manure presents no serious problem. He will apply the manure to the land which is to receive the cultivated crop.
There are two good reasons for suggesting that whenever possible barnyard manure should reach the fields in the fall rather than in the spring of the year. First, there is less waste of the elements of fertility by the leaching effects of the winter and spring rains; second, when applied in the fall and also turned under by fall plowing decomposition sets in immediately, progresses slowly during the winter, then proceeds rapidly with the warming up of the soil in the spring.
Nitrogen, one of the most important of chemical elements to growing plants, is thus made available for its use even before the crop is planted. Fall plowing, especially when left rough, also puts the soil in the best possible condition for the absorption and retention of the winter and spring rains.

Are you testing your seed for germinating qualities? It is a simple matter, and the state experiment station will send you full directions for doing it at home.

The women of Idria, in the Austrian province of Krain, were so dissatisfied with the fire-brigade that they have formed one of their own, consisting of 60 "firewomen," with Frau Marie Straos as their commander.

Unsuccessful Experiment.

"I wonder," mused Harry, who was studying his Sunday school lesson, "if men will ever live to be 500 or 600 years old again?" "No, I guess not," replied his six-year-old sister. "The Lord tried the experiment once and they got so bad he had to drown most of them."

Historic Blackguards

By
Albert Payson Turhouse

The Duke of Monmouth, Blackguard or Coward

SEVERAL thousand armed Puritans marched through Western England in the early summer of 1685, singing hymns at the top of their lungs and offering up fervent prayers of DUKE OF MONMOUTH thanks that all sin was about to be abolished and that a pious man was leading their country back to the "good old days" of Oliver Cromwell.

The "pious man" was James, Duke of Monmouth. He had about as much piety as a peacock—and almost as much beauty. To this day it is hard to decide whether he was more blackguard or arrant coward. Probably an equal blend of both.

Charles II of England died without a direct heir. Thus his younger brother mounted the throne as King James II. Many English people hated and distrusted King James. Many politicians looked on him as an enemy of their pet schemes. A large number of Englishmen were Puritans who were disgusted with the dissipation and extravagance of Charles' reign and sighed for the graver, godlier times of Cromwell.

Monmouth was the son of one Lucy Walters, who claimed to have been secretly married to Charles II. Monmouth declared he was therefore the rightful heir to the British throne. He (and the politicians who made use of him) said the records of the marriage and of his birth were hidden in a mysterious "black box," and would be produced at the proper time. Charles had publicly denied this story. But this proved little. For Charles had had a way of denying anything he did not want to confess. And he had lent color to the rumor by his great affection for young Monmouth.

Now that Charles was dead and James was on the throne, in 1685, Monmouth was thrust forward by a group of shrewd men as England's lawful King. His advisers first worked on the weak Duke's ambitions, then persuaded the Puritans that he would bring back the customs of Cromwell. They induced Monmouth to raise the flag of rebellion in the west of England where Puritanism was strongest. Monmouth proclaimed himself King at Taunton, and declared James II had poisoned King Charles to gain the crown.

At once thousands of farmers, peasants and shopkeepers flocked to the Duke's standard. They were simple, honest, God-fearing men who believed Monmouth's promises and hated evil living. But no noblemen (except a few exiled adventurers, etc.) joined him.

At Sedgemoor, in the early morning of July 6, 1685, Monmouth's troops found themselves close to the King's army. The Duke had planned a night attack. But in the darkness his forces came to a water ditch they could not cross. There, unable to advance, they were attacked and routed by the royal soldiery. The peasants and other Puritans fought like heroes and were literally cut to pieces before they were retreating. But at almost the very beginning of the battle Monmouth fled in terror, leaving the helpless followers to die for a man who was deserting them. (This was the last battle ever fought on English soil.) Those not killed in fight were hunted out and slaughtered by the soldiery or hanged by hundreds at Judge Jeffrey's cruel orders.

Monmouth galloped away, closely pursued. Later, disguised as a beggar, he was caught in a bean field where he had hidden. In vain he went down on his knees weeping, entreating his captors to spare him. He was sent to London Tower, and was condemned to death. He offered the King anything to spare him, promising to betray his associates, change his religion—anything! Says Macaulay: "He clung in agonies of supplication around the knees of the King." But James knew no mercy. Then Monmouth wrote to the Queen, begging her to intercede for his life, saying with better fervor than spelling: "I do abhor the thing that I have done. . . . I detest all those people who have brought me to this. . . . I am an object of your pity, having been consigned and cheated into this horrid business. . . . Your prayers cannot be refused, since I am begging for life only to serve the King."

Even this whine did not save him, though it was later reported that he was smuggled to a French prison and became "The Man in the Iron Mask," yet Monmouth was really beheaded, July 15, 1685. Finding he could not live, he managed to go to the scaffold with some show of bravery, even advising the executioner how best to sever his head at one stroke. This advice made the executioner so nervous that he bungled the deed. So perished the handsome, vainest, most fickle man of his time. A man unworthy to rule; unworthy to have led braver, truer men to their ruin.

PRIZE WINNERS IN BIG PARADE.

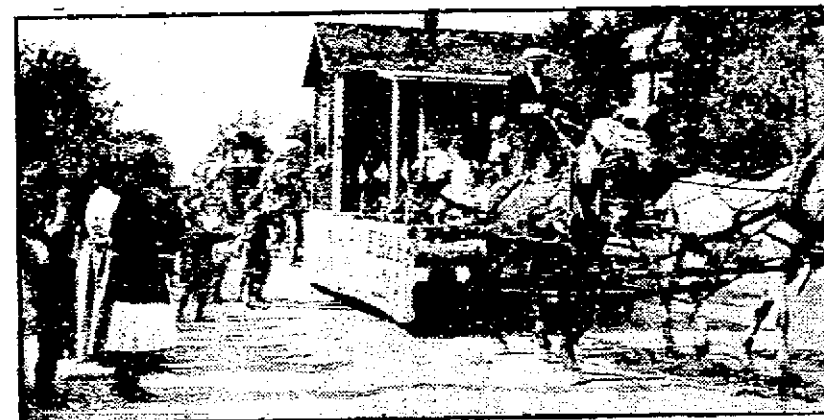

The industrial parade given under the auspices of Newark business men was a big feature of the second day of the Licking County Fair, the most successful Fair in the county's history. Four $25 cash prizes were awarded to The Old Guard, to Meyer & Lindorf, to Charles A. Duerr, florist and to Cyrus Pitzer, who made the best display in the parade of Licking County farm products. Mr. Duerr was awarded the prize for the best decorated automobile and Meyer & Lindorf for the best decorated float. The judges of the parade were Supt. Wilson Hawkins of the public schools, Supt. J. C. Kreig, of the Children's Home and Mayor F. M. Swartz. The prize money was contributed by the business men who gave the Fair Advertising committee nearly $1200.

LITTLE BENNY'S NOTE BOOK

Yestidday my cuzzin Artie and me was in our setting room and we saw 12 segars awn the tabbil, 6 of them having red bands awn them and 6 beeing jest plane.

G. sed Artie, I bet if we took the bands awn these 6 and put them awn the uthir 6 you woodent be abill to tell the differents.

Aftir suppr pop sed to ma, Pavline, look upon a klevin man.

Wat have you bin doing now, sed ma.

Lozerve these 12 brown deackoraters of the breathing process, komminly known as segars, sed pop, and also note that 6 of them have bands around there little brown stumms, while the uthir six are shameless in there rappers.

Sutch a way of saying things, sed ma.

Mr. Lewis is kuming erround to-nite, and I will invite him to partispate in a smooking contest, sed pop. Fethermore I don't mind informing you that I bawt 6 of the worst segars that munny can buy and also 6 of the best segars man is abill to manufacture and then perseeded to change the expensive bands frum the good segars to the bad wuns.

The idee, sed ma, and jest then the bell rang, and it was Mr. Lewis. Ah, sed Mr. Lewis, looking at the segars with the bands awn them, my fayerite band.

Wat do you say to a smooking kontest, sed pop, winking at ma, you smook these 6, if you like them so much, and I'll smook the 6 without eny bands awn them, and whoever gets throo first has to buy a dinner.

Dun, sed Mr. Lewis, I cood smook this brank for a week without getting tired. And he put his 6 awn his side of the tabbil.

Reddy, get set, go, sed pop, and they each lit a segar and began smooking fast as anything.

Finis, sed Mr. Lewis, fine, and he bloo out big bunches of smook. Pop didnt say anything, but he didnt look as if he was having as much of a time as he thawt he was going to have, and aftir a wile he looked at me wero I was setting awn the floor doing my lessins and wundring wat might happen if pop fownd out sumthing.

Lets change segars, sed pop, aftir Mr. Lewis had started awn his seckind segar and pop wasent enyware neer throo his first.

Not awn your life, sed Mr. Lewis, smooking so fast you mite of thawt he was a chimmy.

Pop kepp awn smooking his first segar and look at me, and I kepp awn doing my lessins awn the floor, and Mr. Lewis starid awn his therd segar, saying, Fine, fine, evvry litill wile.

Finished, sed Mr. Lewis, I wun, wy you haven't evin smooked wun.

I no it sed pop, sunhow I don't feel like smooking tonight, I bieve that segar made me ill, Im going to bed, I feel orill.

And he looked at me agen and went out of the room holding his awn awn his stummick, and I kepp awn doing my lessins.

RESTORE GRAY HAIR TO NATURAL COLOR

By Common Garden Sage, a Simple Remedy for Dandruff, Falling, Faded, Gray Hair.

The old idea of using Sage for darkening the hair is again coming in vogue. Our grandmothers had dark, glossy hair at seventy-five, while our mothers are gray before they are fifty. Our grandmothers kept their hair soft and glossy with a "Sage Tea," which also restored the natural color.

One objection to using such a preparation was the trouble of making it. This objection has been overcome by the Wyeth Chemical Company of New York, who has placed on the market a superior preparation of Sage, combined with Sulphur and other valuable remedies for dandruff, itching scalp, and thin, weak, falling hair.

The beauty of the hair depends more on its rich, even shading than anything else. Don't have dry, harsh, faded hair, when a simple, harmless remedy will bring back the color in a few days; and don't be tormented and loose, falling hairs. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy will quickly correct these troubles, and give color, strength and beauty to your hair.

Get a fifty-cent bottle from your druggist today, and prove this to your own satisfaction. All druggists sell it, under guarantee that the money will be refunded if the remedy is not exactly as represented.

ELBERT HUBBARD ON SUFFERING. Elbert Hubbard, editor of the Philistine, says: "Most of the suffering in this life comes from too much work, or too little." He could have left that off "too little," and he would have left it off had he referred to wash-day suffering. There has been too much work on wash day for the women, but now we have Easy Task soap that does the work easily, quickly, cleanly and surely—and does half the work all by itself. It is the cleanest, purest, white laundry soap made and sold at five cents a cake.

TRY NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

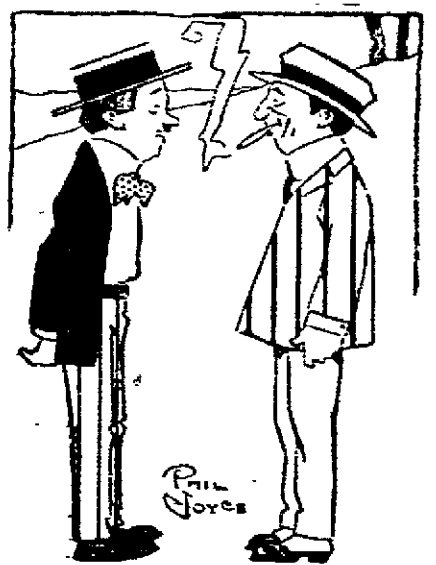

It Removes Dandruff—Saves the Hair.

Dandruff is what starts most of the hair troubles. It starts the growth of the hair, deprives it of life and causes it to fall out. Loss of hair and final baldness, frequently considered inevitable can both be prevented. Newbro's Herpicide will do it. Herpicide is the first and original remedy recommended to kill the germ that causes dandruff. It not only checks the accumulation of dandruff, but destroys entirely the tiny micro-organisms which are the worst enemy to good hair. The intelligent use of Newbro's Herpicide gives new life and luster to the hair and keeps the scalp clean and healthy. The first application is enough to convince you of its value. Herpicide instantly relieves itching of scalp.

ness, is very cooling to the scalp and stops the itching almost instantly. Being free from oil or grease and possessing a delicate and exquisite odor, Herpicide is a delight to ladies of refinement. It does not change the color of the hair in any way. Give it a trial. The Herpicide Co., Dept. S., Detroit, Mich., will send a small bottle of Herpicide to any address upon receipt of 25 cents in postage or silver to cover the cost of packing and mailing. Newbro's Herpicide is sold at all good grocery counters in 50-cent and 50-cent bottles. Your dealer will guarantee to do as claimed, or refund your money. Applications obtained at the better shoe and hair dressing parlors. W. A. Roman, special agent.

ON SECOND THOUGHT.

A good many actors are continually engaged in an effort to defend their titles.

The crowd at a ball game gets a little entertainment from the practice of dumping empty pop bottles in the neighborhood of the visiting players, but it never reveals the full measure of its satisfaction until the umpire is injured.

The prizefight often is stopped by the police, but the orator generally is allowed to ramble along to the end of his speech.

THE GOOD OLD TIMES.

There is a lot of talk about the "good old times." There weren't any "good old times." If you were talking about wash day or house cleaning, those tasks meant red hands and headaches and backaches and trouble. Easy Task laundry soap would have made them "good" old times indeed. It does half the work in washing and cleaning; it drives the dirt out and not in; it doesn't shrink linens or streak linens; and it hasn't any rosin in it to rot the fabrics. If your grocer isn't living in the good old times he sells it—lots of it!

NEWARK BOYS LEAVE TO JOIN ENDURANCE CONTEST TOURISTS

Harley Shenck and Charles McGough, left this morning for Toledo where they will join the Ohio endurance contest for motorcycles which starts from that city October 11.

Schenck is riding an Excelsior machine and McGough a Harley-Davidson. It is expected that more than 100 riders will enter the contest.

The tourists will arrive in Newark Saturday evening of this week and remain over night here, their machines being provided for at the Auditorium garage. Sunday morning the tourists will leave for Cincinnati, via Columbus, Springfield and Dayton.

Relic of Sebastopol.

A Mr. Ormond of Portland, Me., has a piece of the bell of St. Nicholas' church in Sebastopol. It was secured by his father, who served all through the Crimean war. During the bombardment of Sebastopol all the spires of the church were demolished. When the allied armies took the city some of the soldiers cut up the bell and Mr. Ormond's father got one of the pieces.

FRANK NOMINEE SOMETHING NEW

Cox Not Trying to Slip Into Office by False Pretenses.

PEOPLE ARE HIS CONFIDANTS

Democratic Gubernatorial Candidate Is Not Afraid to Publicly State His Position—Program of Progressive Legislation Promised Is Best Offered by a Political Organization in Ohio.

Congressman James M. Cox of Dayton, has adopted a new plan to conduct his campaign for governor—one that conforms to the most modern thought as to how a candidate for public office shall conduct himself.

Instead of trying to slip into office by false pretenses or "carrying water on both shoulders" as the old-time boss controlled candidate did, Congressman Cox is making confidants of the people. He discusses all pending public questions, declares plainly what his position is on each, what he thinks ought to be done and what he proposes to see done when he is chosen governor. In his travels, the Democratic gubernatorial candidate tells the county organizations he will call upon them to help him redeem party platform pledges should that become necessary, and he is going to conduct a "round table," where experts in different lines will meet him and exchange views concerning important legislation.

The new administration will put through 20 big reform measures—the largest and most progressive program ever put forth by a party in this state. Here are some of the most important:

A short ballot law, which shall abolish state offices created by the legislature, and the submission to the people of a constitutional amendment to abolish all the so-called "constitutional" state offices, except the supreme court, and make them appointive by the governor.

A state-wide primary for all state, county and municipal officers, United States senators and delegates to national political conventions.

An amendment that will compel employers to contribute to the workmen's compensation fund.

A law for the removal from office of public officials, including state officers, judges and members of the legislature, found guilty of misconduct. An immediate revaluation of public utility properties so that rates shall be based upon actual value and not upon "watered stock."

Laws providing a tax on inheritances, incomes and franchises. Legislation abolishing the present state tax levy, giving municipalities home rule in taxation affairs, reducing the hours of work for employed women, restricting still further the employment of children, providing separate ballots for the election of state and national officers, making a state levy for good roads, creating a liquor license system that will call for rigid enforcement, making state experimental farms more beneficial and granting municipalities every facility conveyed to them by the home rule amendment recently adopted.

Then there is to be judicial reform legislation and a new penitentiary, with about 1,500 acres of fertile land surrounding it; prisoners to be employed on the farm and at other pursuits where the biggest item is labor cost; prisoners to be paid and the difference between the cost of their subsistence and their earnings to be turned over to their families or other dependents.

An era of great progress is in store for the commonwealth when Jimmie Cox is inaugurated governor, and a Democratic legislature is seated to work in harmony with him.

"TIM'S" RECORD CITED.

By Cleveland Plain Dealer in an Editorial.

"Tim Hogan, as he is known all over the state, has been in office two years. He is one of the hardest workers at the state house, has given personal attention to the important matters at issue, and has handled his office without political bias. He has made an excellent record and was eulogized at the state convention by his party for the good work he has done. He gave his personal services to the graft trials of indicted senators, and contributed largely to the successful prosecution of the cases. He will perform the same services in the cases yet to be tried."—Cleveland Plain Dealer, Sept. 25, 1912.

Theodore Roosevelt says that he never asked E. J. Harriman to contribute to his campaign fund. Theodore's testimony is responsible for a new mystery that is most mystifying. It is: If Roosevelt or his agents did not ask for the money, why did Harriman raise $250,000 for Teddy?

President Taft's candidacy is to receive another blow. It has just been announced that Senator Burton is to speak for him in Ohio.

You can't expect people to believe in luck who have never had any.

DENISON WORKS HARD GETTING READY FOR GAME

Granville, Oct. 9.—Coach Livingston of Denison started out yesterday afternoon's work in general practice at passing the ball. After about 15 minutes of fast signal practice the Varsity was lined up against the seconds for scrimmage. Thompson was played at fullback position and showed himself to be a good, consistent ground gainer. His weight, combined with fair speed, gives the coach just what he has been looking for to fill the fullback position.

Williams of the second team showed up well at halfback, making considerable gains through the Varsity line. Biggs and Bradford are being tried out for the guard position left vacant by Thompson.

Fuchs, a sophomore, appeared yesterday in uniform. He has a reputation as a high school player. The coach gave him special attention. After a short signal practice he was put at halfback on the second team. He comes up to his reputation he will probably be in the game against Ohio State. He is of medium height and weighs about 170 pounds. He will be a valuable asset to the light back field.

THROWN FROM MOTORCYCLE AND BADLY INJURED

Roy Horchler, motorcycle rider, was rendered unconscious Wednesday morning when his machine collided with a ladder on the rear end of H. A. Bailey's wagon. Horchler was thrown from his machine and was unconscious for nearly an hour.

The victim was riding west on West Main street behind the Bailey wagon. This vehicle turned from Main street at Seventh, a move unlooked for by Horchler and though he was riding slowly, he was unable to avoid collision with the rig. He struck a ladder which projected from the rear of the wagon, breaking off a section about four feet in length. Horchler was thrown to the street and was picked up unconscious.

After he was revived, it was found that he was not seriously hurt though he suffered considerably from bruises and cuts. He was taken to the home of his sister, Mrs. George T. Stream in Flory avenue.

I Am Willing To Prove I Can Cure You

To That End I Am Giving Away $10,000 Worth of Medicine

DR. T. FRANK LYNOTT who is giving away $10,000 worth of medicine.

In order to show beyond all doubt that I am in possession of a medicine that will cure kidney trouble, bladder trouble or rheumatism, I will this year give away ten thousand dollars' worth of this medicine, and anyone suffering from these diseases can get a box of it absolutely free. All that is necessary is to send me your address. I don't mean that you are to use a part of it or all of it and pay me if cured. I mean that I will send you a box of this medicine absolutely free of charge, a gift from me to the Uric Acid sufferers of the world, so I can show them where and how they may be cured. I will not expect payment for this free medicine, nor would I accept it now or later if you sent it. It is free in the real meaning of the word.

For twenty-five years—a quarter of a century—I have been trying to convince the public that I have something genuine, something better than others have for the cure of stubborn, chronic rheumatism, for torturing kidney backache, for uric acid troubles. But it is hard to convince people—they try a few things unsuccessfully and give up all hope of relief. I have listened to them, therefore, I am in a position now to demonstrate to sufferers at my own expense that I have a medicine that cures these diseases. I don't ask them to spend any money to find out; I don't ask them to believe me; nor even to take the word of reliable people, but all I ask is that they allow me to send them the medicine at my own cost. That is surely fair.

To this end I have set aside ten thousand dollars, which will be used to compound my medicine. Much of it is ready now to be sent out. I have a complete standard. There will be enough for all sufferers, though there be thousands of them. And anyone who needs it can get some of it free. But in order that I shall know that you have a disease for which this medicine is intended, I ask you to send me some of your leading symptoms if you have any of the symptoms in the list printed here you need my medicine and if you will write me I will gladly send you a box of it free with full directions for your use. Look the symptoms over, see which symptoms you have then write me about as follows:

"Dear Dr. I notice symptoms number—here put down the numbers, give your age, full address, and send it to me. My address is Dr. T. Frank Lynott, 9185 Deagan Bldg., Chicago, Ill. The ten thousand dollars I am spending for the compounding of my medicine is only a part of the money I am devoting to this cause, for the package of medicine I send you will be fully prepaid at my expense. From any standpoint you view it, YOU incur no expense or obligation. Just tell others who you know are suffering who sent you the medicine that cured you.

I am promising to give away ten thousand dollars' worth of medicine, and I

TABERNACLE

for them. It is estimated that fully 350 men will join in making this meeting a success.

"Every case of physical healing," said Dr. Lyon in commencing his address, "performed by Jesus is typical of some great form of spiritual healing which Jesus can perform. For every type of physical ailment Christ healed is an example and a type of some spiritual ailment which he can heal; every example, the blind man the type of the sinner blinded by sin, and the lame man typical of the life that has been weakened by wickedness, etc. But no form of physical ailment is so clear a type of sin as is paralysis. The paralytic can do nothing for himself, to himself, by himself, or for himself.

"So it is with the life that is away from God. No matter how much you may struggle and strive, there is not a thing that you can do by yourself to bring you to everlasting life. The only thing you can do is to give up. God has to come into your life to give you power."

"Here was a case of great need," continued the evangelist. "The man was stricken with paralysis. For 38 years he had been in this condition. We find him, with a multitude of others, lying by the pool, waiting for the moving of the waters. Is not that a clear picture of this old world tonight?"

Lots of Men Lying.

"We are lying by the different pools of life; many of us lying in more ways than one. Many in the political pool, as we have seen by the reports of the investigating committees at Washington during the past few days. What's any more pitiful than to see a great many politicians willing to get down and crawl in the slime simply for the sake of getting office, hoping that some moving of the waters, some political lightning will strike about where they are standing.

"Many others are lying by the financial pool, hoping that some turn of the card or the wheel will gain for them financial success; many a man willing to sell his soul simply for dollars.

"Then there are those lying by the social pool. A lady told me the other day that 'she couldn't be a Christian, because she wants to shine in society.' I'd rather shine up yonder than down here," commented Dr. Lyon, pointing in his dramatic way to the heavens. "Some are willing to smirch their reputations at the social game, at the bridge whist table, or draw poker, in order that they might shine in 'society.' Many a daughter is willing to risk the danger, that she may be graceful in society, to go forth and shine on the ballroom floor—lying by the social pool."

Dr. Lyon criticized the popular pride that causes the newly rich to seek the patronage of wealthy, titled Englishmen, and supported his argument with a recital of a prominent American who was willing to pay $10,000 for the honor of having the Prince of Wales eat dinner aboard his yacht.

The Great Question.

"But there comes a noble one to this pool," continued the speaker, "and stopping before this helpless one, asks him, 'Wilt thou be made whole?'"

"The question that Jesus put to that man is the same question that he is putting to you and to me. Wilt thou be made whole?"

"Someone says, 'I'd like to be a Christian, but I cannot.' The question is not, 'Would you be a Christian if you could?' The question that he asks is, 'Would you be a Christian? Do you want to be one, would you like to be a Christian? Is the desire in your heart for a right life?'"

"Upon the answer to that question depends your soul's eternal destiny."

Types of Students.

Dr. Lyon emphasized the need for an appreciation of one's condition by telling of his experiences as a college professor. He was given an opportunity to study two scholars, one who thought that he could not be taught anything, and the other who knew that he didn't know anything, but was willing to start at the bottom and work ahead. The result was that the first student left school before the season was over, while the second became a veritable giant in learning, out-clasping all of his mates in his struggle after knowledge.

"Some of you silly dudes, some of you fellows that wear those little hickory nut caps on the back of your peanut heads, some of those fellows that have to smoke long pipes and cigarettes to keep your brains from doing something—you fellows who just at the boy from the farm and say 'he don't know whether they play poker with a billiard cue—you fellows that stick your feet under your father's table and eat three square meals a day and then spend your nights in some pool hall—you'll have to look out or some of those rubes with the hayseed in their hair are going to make you sit up and take notice! The boys that are reared on the farms are going to go far ahead of you in the race of life!"

"In our educational system we measure out so much beans, bacon and brown bread and cram it into the student's head, whether he can stand it or not," added the speaker.

Wouldn't Feed Dyspeptics.

"The trouble with young people today is that they are sent to school but they have no hunger for an education."

"If I were a cook, I'd hate to have to feed a dyspeptic—one of those fellows that snoops around and turns up his nose at everything. I'd rather have one of those fellows that eats and eats and eats until he leaves the table—and that's about all he does leave!"

"The greatest man in God's sight is the man with a great appetite for spiritual things. This was the greatness that made David. My friend, if you want to be saved, there is no power on earth, there are not enough devils in hell to get you outside of the kingdom of heaven, but if you are satisfied to remain away from God, even God himself cannot do anything for you."

Dr. Lyon told the charming story of the botanist in Scotland who showed to an old Scot the real beauties of a bluebell. The old Highlander was greatly distressed because he had been tramping the bluebell beneath his feet every day as he walked through the fields.

"Just think, my friends," he continued, "what you have been doing. Are you satisfied to stay away from Christ and trample under the heel of your indifference the kindness and the goodness and the mercy of the love of God?"

"Then there is always the realization of doing something that will push us towards salvation," added the evangelist, as he emphasized his argument by relating the story of a man who was caught between the pillars in New York Harbor. When finally extricated, just as the tide was about to claim him, his reason was dethroned and he was taken to a hospital, a raving maniac.

"Friends, if you could for just one moment get a realization of the anguish and terror in the doom of a lost son, you that are rejecting Jesus could appreciate the truth of Christ's saying, 'Whatsoever ye sow, that shall he also reap.' The caverns of the lost will resound with the wails and agonies of that doomed soul. Souls by the scores and hundreds would tonight fall down upon their knees and seek salvation if you could get a vision of the glory of the love of God and cry out, 'What must I do to be saved?'"

Has the Power.

"The man acknowledged his weakness and insufficiency," continued the speaker. "If you look up you will get victory. You cannot save yourself tonight, or tomorrow; you never can. But God can save you. If he was able to create your life, isn't he able to save it and isn't he able to keep it? The God who made the planets and the stars can save your soul and you'll have to realize that you cannot do it again."

Dr. Lyon then showed that the paralytic at the pool lacked the strength to get into the pool and had no one to help him in. "But there was the strong Son of God, waiting to put him into the pool," he continued. "It isn't how much strength you or your fellow man has on which you should rely, but how much strength God has."

"There came a ray of hope into that paralytic's mind as he saw a vision of health and he must have thought, 'Wouldn't it be glorious if I could be healed?' My friends, wouldn't it be glorious if you were saved? Wouldn't there be many a happy wife in this town tonight if every father would come out for Jesus? How many happy mothers, sons and daughters there would be?"

"Wouldn't it be glorious, fathers, if you could go to your homes with the realization that you are eternally saved?"

"We are saved by hope. The scripture says so. Whenever we get hope in our souls, it's an easy climb up to faith."

Dr. Lyon then devoted several minutes to a discussion of the real meaning of Jesus' question, and showed that heal, whole, holy and wholly came from the same root. Jesus asked if the paralytic would be made whole, not if he would make himself whole. Friends, will you let God come into your life to give you the victory over sin?" he asked.

"Up to this point Jesus had been dealing with the intellect. Now he deals with the man's will, and the real test for the will power of a man is his obedience."

Must Not Go Back.

"Jesus told him to take up his bed and walk, and as the man, looking into the face of Jesus, received faith, he believed Jesus. Believing is to believe that Christ gives with his commands the power to obey what he commands. For Jesus to have commanded that man to rise with giving him the power to arise would have been jeering at his weakness and helplessness."

"As soon as he obeyed Jesus, then that divine might, that created this universe, that power began to flow into every nerve and fibre of that man's being, and he became strong and well."

"Christ commanded him to take up his bed because he didn't want that man to go back to Bethesda again. He was afraid that he might get back some day and lie down on the old bed. Friends, when you are a Christian, do something positive. Do something definite. Evidence your faith in Jesus. Commit yourself to Jesus. Depend on Jesus. Do not go back to Bethesda and get paralysis again."

Dr. Lyon closed his sermon with the story of a Civil War captain who said that the greatest sight he had ever seen was that of the impetuous prayer of thanksgiving that rose from a negro when he escaped capture and was landed safely on Canadian soil during war times. "But there is something greater than that," he commented. "It is the joy and gladness of a soul saved by Christ and the grace of God. Wilt thou be made whole? Friends, if there is anyone here tonight who would be made whole, Christ will hear his plea and give him the strength to leave the old life."

PRAYER MEETINGS

About 60 neighborhood prayer meetings were held over the city on Tuesday morning. Only 47 of the division leaders reported the attendance to the general chairman. There were just 600 people present at these 47 meetings. It is safe to estimate that at least 700 persons attended the neighborhood meetings yesterday morning. Reports of most remarkable interest came from all parts of the city. This is one of the best indications of a great spiritual awakening in our midst. The following meetings are announced for Thursday morning at 9 o'clock:

- District 2, Mrs. Frank Richardson, 226 N. Cedar; Dist. 3-A, Mrs. W. J. Allen, 328 Indiana; Dist. 3-B, Mrs. McVeigh, 249 N. Buena Vista; Dist. 4-A, Mrs. M. E. Davis, 75 N. MEN'S LUNCHEON.

Fully 100 men partook of the luncheon in the First Presbyterian church at noon today, the second of the series of noon-day meetings arranged for the business men. Tomorrow's luncheon will be served by the ladies of the Second Presbyterian church and on Friday by the ladies of the First M. E. church. Chicken pie was the attraction at today's luncheon.

Dr. Lyon's fifteen minute talk was preceded by a solo "It is Jesus," sung by Prof. Mitchell.

Dr. Lyon took his theme from the first chapter of Ephesians, and discussed the "Five Walks" of Christian life. The first of these walks, Dr. Lyon showed, was in walking worthy of the high vocation to which Christians are called. "If you have been blessed and chosen by Christ as one of his kingdom, and have an inheritance with God, walk worthy of that vocation," said the speaker. He related the history of the young Dauphin of France, who refused to curse his father, the king, declaring only that "he was a king himself." There is nothing on this earth that can get a person to realize how he ought to walk, what sort of an example he ought to set before others, than to realize that he is a child of God, that he is heir apparent to the cross of Christ, and a member of the aristocracy of Christ."

The second walk is to walk "not as other Gentiles walk." The world doesn't see enough difference between our lives and the lives of the ungodly around us. "We ought to be distinguished by a peculiar holiness of our lives. When the world sees that you have a victory over sin, appetite, bad temper, avarice, etc., that the ungodly man has not, that's the thing that is going to mean more to bring the un-believing and ungodly to our Lord than all the preaching and sermons that were ever preached."

"Third, walk as children of light," said Dr. Lyon. "I like the old spirit of nobleness, obliging, and that unto him to whom much is given much shall be expected."

"Fourth, walk in love," advised the preacher. "That's the true test of Christianity. Are you easier to get along with than you used to be? Are you getting over your peevishness, your crankiness, your nervousness? Is there a sweetness coming into your life that the world sees and you have not had before. That's the test of our lives. When the meetings get under way and things come up to annoy, my disposition is to fight and it's pretty hard to keep sweet. If we are to be a power for God, if we are to do anything to bring thousands to his kingdom, we have to follow Jesus Christ and walk in the love that he showed to us."

In closing, Dr. Lyon exposed the command of the epistle to "walk circumspectly," and described this humorously as the way that a cat would walk on the top of a wall covered with pieces of broken glass. There are thousands of men in this very community among whom God is asking Christians to walk circumspectly, redeeming the time, or buying up their opportunities, because the days are evil and the love of God must come in if the world is to be saved."

BEHIND MOVEMENT TO PAY CONVICTS

Mayme Gerhue.

Miss Mayme Gerhue, the clever little dame with Miss Kitty Gordon in "The Enchantress" this season, is behind a movement to compensate convicts for their labor.

"It is barbarous and un-American to give a convict after he has labored a number of years a paltry $5, and a prison-made suit of clothes," declares Miss Gerhue. "We must have convict labor, for no man or woman can remain idle for any great length of time. But why not pay for the work the prisoners do? The money should be given to those dependent on the prisoners, for often these dependent ones are in want. Paying them I believe would have a tendency to lessen crime."

Advantage of Electricity.

Electricity can not be frozen, neither can it be adulterated. It works equally well on hot or cold days.

Have Color in Your Cheeks—Be Better Looking—Try Olive Tablets.

If your skin is yellow-complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study with his patients.

These Olive Tablets oil the bowels—yet have no oily taste. They are a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil.

If you want a clear pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days, you must get at the cause. Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after-effects. They start the bile and overcome constipation. That's why millions of boxes are sold annually at 10 cents and 25 cents per box.

"Every little Olive Tablet has a movement all its own." Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results.

It's Economical to Keep Furniture in Repair

THESE are the days when the economical housewife begins to look over the furniture around the house to find out just what pieces need repairing and which ones are in good enough condition to last another winter.

It is always a wise plan to touch up furniture, either in the way of oiling or varnishing, just as soon as it begins to look the least bit shabby. In this way everything around a house may be kept in perfect condition and much money saved, for to let every piece of furniture run down until it looks about to fall to pieces is no real economy and shows a decidedly careless housekeeper.

It often takes three times as much money to fix over furniture which has been allowed to get into this state of disrepair as it does to have each piece repaired as it begins to show the wear of years.

Often, too, with a few cents' worth of varnish or oil the housekeeper can do all the touching up that is required. The real wood of the various furniture sets around the house should never be varnished with anything which will destroy the grain of the wood from sight. Walnut furniture, for instance, should be oiled, as the beauty of this wood lies in its smooth, waxylike appearance.

A certain kind of wax may be used also for polishing walnut or mahogany tables. Mahogany furniture, however, looks best when polished with one of the various furniture polishes which are prepared for this beautiful wood. Cheap furniture can be restored to very good condition by a reliable varnish, and often these pieces can be painted over with splendid results.

GIFT FOR THE BABY

A VERY acceptable little gift for a baby and one which is easily made and is costly only in time and in the number of intricate stitches is a number of cap strings. These can be laundered separately and can either be sewed on the cap or pinned with tiny gold pins. These little pins should accompany the cap strings.

Very fine batiste or sheer lawn should be used, cut into three and one-half inch strips, fifteen inches long, which are then hemmed by hand. The ends may be made as elaborate as desired. Dainty hemstitching with an edge of tatting made of 70 thread is a charming finish. A tiny scallop with a beading insertion of real lace is also lovely, or embroidered ends with tiny wreaths of forget-me-nots and eyelet dots may be used.

ONE OF THE NEW FALL HATS

SMART MODEL IN BROWN VELOURS.

VELOURS hats are very smart this season and for certain occasions are taking the place of the more dressy velvet creations. The illustration shows a delightful velours creation in a lovely shade of cinnamon brown trimmed with feathers of the same color. A brown ostrich feather boa is becoming worn with this very fetching hat. In fact, brown is among the most approved colors of the season, but it is a color that should be chosen with care, for when unbecomingly it is intensely unbecoming. When worn by the women with brown hair and eyes it is an ideal combination.

THE TURNIP IN VARIOUS STYLES

TURNIP PUREE A LA CREME.

Peel, slice and mince a dozen small turnips, blanch and drain them. Place in a saucepan with about two ounces of butter, fry for a few minutes without coloring, then add enough white stock to cover and a few stalks of parsley. Cook until quite tender, then drain and take out the parsley. Pass it all through a sieve, reheat the puree in the saucepan with a piece of butter and a pinch of sugar. Season with salt, pepper and grated nutmeg. If the puree is too thick reduce it. Finally add two or three tablespoonsfuls of cream.

Turnip Soup.—Cook the turnips as stated in the above recipe, but add rather more stock to the puree to give it the consistency of soup. Pass it all through a sieve and reheat the soup. Let it simmer slowly for about half an hour. Skim and add one-half gill of milk or cream and a piece of fresh butter. Serve the soup with croutons of fried bread.

Glazed Turnips.—Wash and peel a bunch of young turnips and cut them by means of a large vegetable spoon in the shape of olives or large balls. Put them in a pan with one ounce of butter, season with salt, pepper and a pinch of sugar and moisten with a little stock. Bring to the boil and simmer gently until cooked. They must have absorbed all their stock and be slightly colored. Turnips prepared in this way are served as a vegetable or a garnish for entrees.

Turnips a l'italienne.—Wash a bunch of young turnips and peel them thin.

If large, cut them in half, cook them for twenty minutes in salted water. Strain off the water and drain the turnips. Melt one ounce of butter in an earthenware casserole or, failing this, use a pie dish. Put in the turnips, adding a little white sauce between each layer. Season with a little salt and pepper. Sprinkle a small handful of breadcrumbs over the top, also some grated cheese and a little melted butter. Bake in an oven for about thirty minutes and send to table in the same dish.

Turnips au Gratin.—Peel lightly eight or nine medium sized young turnips, cut them into slices and wash and drain them thoroughly. Melt two ounces of butter in a stewpan. When hot put in the turnips and stir over a brisk fire, season with pepper and salt, moisten with a little stock and cook until tender. Rub through a sieve or drain them. Arrange the slices on the puree in a well buttered pie dish and pour over them a bechamel sauce. Sprinkle the surface with fine breadcrumbs and add a few tiny bits of butter here and there. Bake in a quick oven for about ten minutes, long enough to brown the top nicely.

Bechamel Sauce.—Make a white sauce, using equal quantities of chicken stock and cream as the liquid. If the chicken stock has not been flavored with vegetables, etc., fry a generous tablespoonful of vegetables, carrot, onion, parsley, etc., in the butter before adding the flour. Do not, however, allow them to color. Strain before serving.

NEW ENGLISH RAINCOATS

AMONG the useful and serviceable garments needed by the schoolgirl is a raincoat. Some stunning English coats, intended to be worn when the chilly November rains come down, are in the shops for sale. These new coats are fashioned from soft toned cravenette or rubberized cloth, and a decidedly good feature of them is the ventilation piece across the back in addition to the ones under the arms.

Every girl who goes to college knows how convenient a coat of this kind is to run across the campus in or when going to the schoolhouse.

Dressed in one of these coats the young girl knows that she will be carefully protected from the wind and storm of the early winter weather, while at the same time realizing that she is correctly garbed for the elements.

It is a shame to get a nice topcoat wet every time a girl goes out in the rain, but with a good raincoat all this trouble is avoided and the topcoat can be kept for sunny days.

These English coats may be also used for traveling and for motoring and are just the thing to wear to church on a stormy morning.

BUTTERMILK COTTAGE CHEESE

VERY few housewives know that delicious cottage cheese can be made from buttermilk as well as from plain sour milk. Many farm households have been denied the cheese because they use cream separators and accumulate no sour milk. To make the cheese put the buttermilk in a jar on the back part of the stove, where it will heat slowly. It requires a little more heating to curd than does the other milk. When it has entirely separated pour off the whey and turn the curd into a cheesecloth sack to drip, letting it stand from eight to ten hours. When it is dry stir a small amount of salt into the curd, mix with sweet cream or rich milk.

APPREHEND VICTIMS OF GRAND JURY

Thirteen Out of Twenty-Seven Made Public—News of the Licking County Courts.

At the time of the report of the findings of the recent grand jury it was stated that the body had returned twenty-seven true bills, but that none of them would be made public until the indicted persons had been placed under arrest and either released under bond or confined in the county jail.

Since that time some of the parties have been apprehended and the officials have made public a number of the indictments. The names of the parties and the charges against them follow:

Leo Ray, two counts, assault and battery.

George Johnson, two counts, breaking and entering an inhabited dwelling, robbery.

Walter Mitchell, two counts, breaking and entering and grand larceny.

Clayton Reynolds, grand larceny.

A. R. Brake, grand larceny.

Raymond Tipton, burglary and larceny.

Paula Koerber, burglary and larceny.

Joseph A. Cross, failure to provide.

Frank Saltz, two counts, burglary and grand larceny.

Samuel Dettelme, rape.

James Waddell, grand larceny.

Harry Jenkins, attempting to pass articles in the jail.

The assignment of the criminal cases has been postponed pending the return of Prosecutor Phil B. Smythe, who is out of the city traveling because of ill health.

Appraisers Report.

In the matter of Hugh A. Miller vs. Henry W. Chaney, the report of the appraisers, M. J. Reese, J. M. Phillips and A. H. Rickert has been filed. The real estate is listed in two parcels, first parcel, lot 4013, A. H. Heisey's addition, $300; second parcel, lot 4019, A. H. Heisey's addition, $450.

Petition Suit.

In the case of Chas. Metz vs. David C. Metz et al., a suit brought for the partition of real estate, an order of partition was made, and the following were appointed by the court as commissioners to make the partition: A. H. Rickert, J. R. Warner and Fred C. Lyons.

W. G. Corne v. W. E. Wright, judgment for plaintiff for $26.50 and interest.

G. O. P. BOSS FREED

Notorious Cincinnati Politician Escaped Without a Trial.

At the state Republican convention in 1908 a circular issued by the Judicial Reform Union was given each delegate. In that document an attack was made upon the supreme court of Ohio, then made up of Republicans, in general, and Justice Shauk, in particular. The latter was charged with being a judicial boss and absolutely dominating the court. He was charged with being biased in favor of the Standard Oil company, the railroads, trusts, insurance companies and other big corporations.

This circular aroused a storm of criticism which ended with the election of two Democrats to the court in 1910. A decision was given by that tribunal early in 1911 in favor of the Republican Boss of Cincinnati, bringing him to trial on a perjury charge before a judge who did not owe his nomination to bossism, indicates that there is need for further cleansing.

Judge Charles J. Hunt, a Republican member of the Hamilton county bench, one of the Boss' nominees. Prosecutor Hunt claimed usurped the functions of presiding judge and assigned Judge Samuel L. Dickinson, another Boss-made judge, to try the perjury charge against the politician. Defeated in his efforts to compel the boss to plead to the indictment in another court, Prosecutor Hunt applied to the supreme court for leave to file a petition in quo warranto to ascertain by what authority Judge Hunt was acting as presiding officer of the court. But in a decision concurred in by the Republican judges of the supreme court, and to which the two Democratic members dissented, the application was denied, and a few weeks later Judge Dickinson nolleed the indictment against the Boss and set him free without a trial on the merit of the accusation.

The Democratic candidates for the supreme court are: Hon. Oscar W. Newman and Hon. William E. Scofield (long term), two to be elected; Hon. J. F. Wilkin (short term), one to be elected. Their names will not appear on the regular party ticket, but will be placed on separate non-partisan ones.

CROSSER ON PEOPLE'S SIDE

"Mr. Crosser is the author of the municipal referendum law passed by the general assembly. As a member of that body he advocated generally advanced ideas in legislation and government. As a delegate to the constitutional convention, Crosser brought forward the big initiative and referendum amendment. He was active and vigorous in support of all the progressive measures."—Cleveland Plain Dealer Sept. 20.

RECEIVER OF GEARWOOD CO. FILES REPORT

In the matter of the receivership of the Newark Gearwood Company the receiver, W. C. Christian, has filed his report and an application for an order of appraisement and sale.

In his application the receiver states that he has completed all the contracts existing at the time of his appointment, as ordered by the court; that there are uncollected accounts existing at time of appointment amounting to $1,520.28, that there will come due on accounts for goods sold by him as receiver on completion of the contracts the sum of $1,932.85, making a total of $3,253.13 credits in his possession.

The receiver states that he has on hand a large amount of material and personal property in addition to the machinery, that there is an outstanding indebtedness of the company amounting to much more than the assets in the hands of the receiver, and that it is necessary, therefore, to sell the residue of personal property and real estate to pay this indebtedness.

The statement of the receiver is that the property is a manufacturing plant and that its value depends upon the good will and the prosecution of the business, and for this reason the sale should be effected at once, as the plant is now idle. The petition prays that George L. Smith, H. R. Scheidler and J. L. Nutter be appointed appraisers of the personal and real property, and that after the appraisement is made the receiver be ordered to sell upon such terms as the court shall direct.

Won by Degrees.

"Dashington seems to have finally made a conquest of that Seadmore girl. Wonder how it all came about." "The first time she saw him she gave him her eye, the next time they met she gave him her arm, it wasn't long before he was holding both of her hands, soon after that he won her heart, and she lost her head and gave herself to him completely."—Judge.

Charming View.

Citizen (to house agent)—"I thought you said there was a charming view from the front windows? Why, there are only houses to be seen." House agent—"So there is a charming view, r. In the house opposite lives the most beautiful widow you ever clapped eyes on, and she's always at the window."
